In a natural setting of rare and unmistakable beauty, Carrara is nestled like a diamond between the Tyrrhenian Sea and the Apuan Alps, north of Tuscany, rich in history, tradition, and culture.

A city synonymous with the prized Carrara marble of the same name, where even the benches, cobblestones, and flowerpots are made of this splendid stone, known since ancient Roman times. It is world-famous for the unparalleled and unique spectacle offered by its quarries. Along the coast are beach resorts and accommodations. Carrara Fiere hosts important trade fairs of various kinds, which draw numerous visitors to the coast, creating a significant economic boost.
